MAINTENANCE MEN ACCEPT NEW WAGE SCALE 2 CENTS HOUR RAISE IS GIVEN

(International News Service.)
CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—E. F. Grable, president of the maintenance of way brotherhood, today telegraphed members of the Railway Labor Board that his organization would accept the two cents an hour raise voted by the public group of the board, under protest.

Grable requested that a ruling be rendered by the board as soon as possible. He said his organization was much disappointed at the failure of the board to act, in view of the attitude taken by his men in refusing to go on strike.

BEAUTY BACK HOME WILL FIGHT CANDLER TO CLEAR HER NAME

(By International News Service.)
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 13.—Mrs. Onexima de Bouchelle, the New Orleans beauty who created a sensation in Atlanta Tuesday when she announced the breaking of her engagement to Asa G. Candler, the "South's richest man" stepped from the New Orleans express here today unto the arms of her friends and announced she had come home to "make the fight of her life" to clear her name of slurs, which she says have been cast upon it.

"I am having my whole life to the gaze of the public, not only in New Orleans and Atlanta, but also to the entire country that they may see what calumnies have been heaped upon me by the Candler family," said the beautiful descendant of French nobility. Hints that a new sensation may yet be sprung in the troubles of Mrs. de Bouchelle were forthcoming as she stepped from the train and told friends "Asa had told her something she could not divulge until permitted to do by her attorney."

Mrs. de Bouchelle intimated members of the family have some kind of mysterious hold on the financier which makes him pliable to their wishes and that he could not do otherwise than break the engagement at their command. She intimated she would have no hesitancy in making this public should the need arrive, but her former fiancé had warned her not to use it until the proper time.

"I have come home to fight and fight until my last breath for the clearing of my good name," Mrs. de Bouchelle said. "And it will be cleared. There is justice and I will have it."

LIQUOR POISONS "GOOD-BAD" MAN

(By International News Service.)
COPPER HILL, Tenn., Oct. 13.—George T. Hood, 44-year-old telegrapher, high sheriff of Polk County, member of the county court, proprietor of the Colonial Hotel, and man of affairs, was buried here today, the victim of poisoned liquor.

Hundreds of people, friends and enemies, came from all over the Blue Ridge section to pay their last respects. Hood was known to all as a "good bad man." He had killed three men—each one in open battle and each time was badly wounded himself.

Hood's career was typical of the mountain sections. He was feared by many but trusted and respected by all.

The brother of one of the men he had killed was a victim of the same bottle that caused Hood's death.

PLANS READY FOR ALBANY'S SCHOOL; OFFICIALS STATE

Reports given out by the architect in charge of the erection of the new Albany High School building are to the effect that by this time next fall, its doors and rooms will be thronged by hundreds of happy students.

Prof. R. W. Cowart, the Superintendent, stated this morning that the new structure will stand across the campus from the present High School and the Gordon school building. The building will contain a large gymnasium, that on occasion can be used as an auditorium. There will be laboratories for scientific research, shops, domestic science rooms, a well appointed library, and a large cafeteria, where the normal appetites of school people can be satisfied. The new building will also house the kindergarten department and will in addition contain a number of class rooms.

The older buildings will be fitted up so as to furnish ample class room space for the regular classes and also for the drawing, expression and music departments.

Some few details of the plans for $200,000 building are yet to be decided upon and Prof. Cowart stated that he would be glad to show the plans as they now stand to any one who may come to his office within the next few days.

PASSENGERS SAVED FROM BIG STEAMER

(By International News Service.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The work of transferring the passengers and crew of the ill fated passenger liner City of Honolulu from the shipping board freighter West Faralon, which rescued them from open boats late yesterday 650 miles off this port, to the United States Transport Thomas, was begun at daylight today, shortly after the arrival of the big troop ship.

Radio messages to the Federal Telegraph company at 7:30 stated the work of transfer then was well underway.

The same advices stated the liner City of Honolulu had been gutted beyond repair by the fire, which forced the passengers and crew to the boats yesterday at 9 a. m.

Shortly after 8 o'clock it was reported by wireless that the transfer to the Thomas was complete. The West Faralon was planning to stand by the wreck until the arrival of coast guard cutters and sea-going tugs en route to Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Latest advices state the Thomas now is en route to San Francisco.

TENTATIVE PLAN TO CONVENE CONGRESS ON NOVEMBER 20TH IS AGREED ON TODAY

Call for Special Session Probably Will Be Issued On November 10

FULL STEAM AHEAD FOR SOLONS IS PLAN

President Does Not Want Law-makers Meeting During the Next Summer

(By International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—A tentative agreement has been reached between President Harding and legislative leaders to summon Congress back to Washington in extra session on November 25, thirteen days after the country decides on the political complexion of the new Congress at the polls, it was learned today.

The call probably will be issued November 10.

It is the present plan at the White House to drive the ying Sixty-Seventh Congress full tilt right up to March 3, the date of its legal expiration and then not call the new 68th into session until the regular winter session begins in December.

The President has informed Republican leaders that he distinctly does not want Congress in session next summer and will not call a session until the following December unless some grave public emergency arises.

NICHOLSON SPEAKS AT THE PRINCESS

Before an audience that filled the Princess Theater, C. T. Nicholson, of Washington, D. C., made an enthusiastic address this morning to striking shopmen. Following his introduction Mr. Nicholson spoke for the best part of two hours.

It was stated that he was a member of the Grand Lodge of the International Association of Machinists. The speaker plunged at once into a discussion of the strike situation.

Premier Lloyd George Plans To Quit Public Life For Year's Rest

(International News Service.)
LONDON, Oct. 13.—Premier Lloyd George, who has held the tiller of the British ship of state for virtually six years, today conferred with King George upon political matters.

Belief is growing that the Premier will tender his resignation to the King very soon and that he will announce a general election before the end of this year.

It is known that Mr. Lloyd George wishes to retire from public life for a time, at least. His health has suffered from the tremendous strain he has been under since he took his present office and he wishes to take a year or more to rest up.

During his vacation he probably will visit the United States. The Premier will hold a number of political conferences tomorrow, also making a political speech at Manchester.

MOST OF WORK HAS BEEN COMPLETED IN CONFERENCE PLANS RESTRAINING ORDER DELAYS STOPPAGE OF SALES OF BOOZE

(By International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The federal restraining order issued in New York to prevent prohibition agents from interfering with liquor aboard vessels of the International Mercantile Company, will have the effect of holding up enforcement of Attorney General Daugherty's latest bone dry ruling at all American ports, it was declared today by Judge J. J. Britt, chief counsel for Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

Although the temporary injunction issued by Judge Hand applies only to the jurisdiction of New York, restraining the customs office at the port of New York and the prohibition officials in that territory from "warring" against ships which bring liquor within the three mile zone, Judge Britt said the order would apply constructively to the entire country.

The Cunard line has filed an application in New York for a restraining order like that granted the International Mercantile Marine Company, but the request has not been acted upon.

MRS. EDWARD HALL TAKEN ILL; REPORTS CURRENT SHE WILL BE 'GRILLED' AGAIN

Counsel Says Woman Has Been Grieving Deeply Since The Murder

CELEBRATION MARKS RELEASE OF HAYES

Feeling Still Running High In Brunswick Against Raymond Schneider

(By International News Service.)
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 13.—Suffering from nervous strain, Mrs. Frances Hall, widow of the murdered Episcopal clergyman, Dr. Edward Wheeler Hall, collapsed in her home today. She is under the care of a physician.

T. M. Pfeffer, counsel for Mrs. Hall, said she had been grieving deeply ever since the bodies of her husband and the choir leader of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, had been found lying side by side on the Phillips farm two miles from this city on Sept. 16.

There was a report that Mrs. Hall was to be grilled again today by state police who are working upon the theory that two or three men and one woman is involved. Counsel for Mrs. Hall was prepared to use all possible means to prevent this, even to the extent of seeking a court order.

The celebration which began last night for the return home of Clifford Hayes, formerly charged with the murder, was continued today.

Feeling is running high against Raymond Schneider, who retracted a "confession" he originally made that charged Hayes with the shooting of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills.

A report was circulated that the watch of the dead clergyman had been found in a Philadelphia pawnshop, but this was not confirmed.

COTTON MARKET

(By International News Service.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Trading was active at the opening of the cotton market today with prices seven to ten points higher. The upturns were due partly to active buying by mills, together with support by spot and commission houses. Japanese interests the South and New Orleans were the leading sellers early in the session.

FELT TIRED, SO TIRED

Indiana Lady Says She Was Run-Down, Suffered With Her Back, Took Cardui, and Got Well.

Richmond, Ind.—"I thought I would write a line or so, to say that I owe my good health and strength to Cardui," says a letter from Mrs. Cora Courtney, 31 Railroad Street, this city.

"I was all run-down until my family thought they would lose me," writes Mrs. Courtney. "My husband coaxed me to take Cardui, so, to please him, I did, and will say I do not regret it, for I am able to do all my work and do my shopping."

"I have five children, four in school, my husband and a boarder to do for, and I do all my own work for all of us, and find time to play. We all praise Cardui. Every sick and run-down woman should take this wonderful medicine."

"I suffered with my back; a very weak feeling in my limbs."

"I felt hardly able to drag; just tired—so tired all the time."

"It was an effort for me to do anything, but Cardui helped me so I felt like a different woman."

If you are in a run-down physical condition, suffering as this Indiana lady says she did, give Cardui a fair trial. It should help you.

Police Protect Her From Bandit's Kiss

Miss Agnes Peterson.

A few nights ago Agnes Peterson and her escort, J. Herschel Hardy, of Chicago, were held up by bandits on a lonely road. One of the thugs attempted to kiss her, but her screams and the interference of her escort saved her. Then the bandit called her on the telephone and told her he did not mind not getting her diamond rings but that he felt very keenly the loss of the kiss, which he assured her he intended to get. As a result a police escort is being furnished her.

Persons Using State Highways Must Observe New Rules of Department

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-Decatur Daily)
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 13.—After October 22 every person who uses the public roads of Alabama must observe rules and regulations which were established by the state highway commission in an order issued today. The rules and regulations were provided under authority of the state highway act passed in 1921 which gives the highway commission authority to restrict traffic where it is necessary for the protection of the public roads. Any violation of any rule established by the commission is punishable by a fine of from $10 to $500. If this punishment is not sufficient the trial court may impose a hard labor sentence of as much as six months.

No person will be permitted to place on a vehicle tonnage greater than 500 pounds for each inch in the width of a metal or solid tire and six hundred pounds for each inch of a pneumatic tire.

Traction engines and tractors may be used under their own power provided they do not weigh more than six thousand pounds and provided they are pulling only the machinery attached to them but no traction engine or tractor can be used in hauling commodities on the public roads.

Every person is prohibited from placing advertising signs on the rights of way of public roads without obtaining permission of the state highway commission.

No person will be permitted to store or place any article or impediments on the public highways.

Two wheeled ox carts, such as those used in dragging timber, cannot be used on the public highways under any circumstances.

No person will be permitted to allow his wrecked vehicle to remain on a public highway longer than 24 hours and even during those hours must place upon the wreck lights which may be seen by persons coming from either direction.

No person will be permitted to park an automobile on a public highway for longer than three hours at any one time.

No person will have the right at any time to dump rubbish and any other material on the public highways at any time.

Any person who desires to do any of the things prohibited by the rules must make application to the state highway commission and must furnish sufficient information in support of the application.

No Trace of Ligon Store Thieves Yet

None of the merchandise, stolen from the Ligon store on Second Avenue Wednesday night, has been recovered. A careful estimate of the loss will run upwards of $100, according to those in charge.

The thieves entered the building from the rear door and up to this time no trace of their whereabouts has been found.

Old Timer Predicts "Severe Winter"

Said an old timer today: "Get your coal bins heaped up with coal and make every other provision for a severe winter." This individual based his prognostications on the fact that so many fogs had occurred during the past few weeks. "I have never known it to fail," he said, "that whenever we have many heavy fogs at this particular time of the year, you may look out for severe cold." At any rate the furnace heat as well was turned on just 20 days earlier this season than is usual, frost came last night in North Alabama, coal and wood are both higher, and today is Friday the 13th. A TRUE RAT STORY

Auburntown, 6-22-22.
Stearns Electric Paste Co.,
Dear Sir: Mr. Robert T. Donnell of Auburntown, came in our store the other day and wanted something to kill rats, so I sold him a box Stearns Rat Paste. And he put some paste on six biscuits that night and the next morning he found fifty-four big rats. And the second night he put out four more biscuits with paste on them, and the second morning he found seventeen more rats, making a total of seventy-one rats in two nights, and there were lots more that he did not find.

This is some big rat tale, but nevertheless, it is so. Just thought, would write to let you know that your rat paste is good.
Respectfully, KENNEDY BROTHERS.

TYPHOID FEVER HAS BEEN PRACTICALLY ELIMINATED, NOW FOR MALARIA.

Those who have been hearing through the years, that the South will never come into her own, as long as malaria fever abounds within her borders have had very few doubts, if any as to the truth of the statement. Any who have suffered the blighted effects of "the chills" while in youth or in later life know how ambitionless and dull that ancient enemy leaves its victims. Those who have suffered long continued malaria attacks do not feel fit to make any section of the country great, not even as favored a part of the nation as the Southland. When it is almost impossible to lift ones feet high enough to walk—and malaria does just that thing for the people who have it—how can such afflicted people lift big land mortgages?

When we have to spend a good part of our time fighting "hay fever," how can we have the time or the inclination to enter whole heartedly into the task of helping build a great civilization?

People suffering from any disease can accomplish little, especially if that disease is brought on by germs that are able to shake the entire body, heat it to fever heat, and then cool it off to an ice temperature all in the space of a few minutes. Prevention indeed is better than cure when it comes to malaria. By taking sufficient quinine and such drugs you can break the chills for a season—but only for a season. They will keep returning like bad money. Malaria, like booze, cannot be controlled, it should therefore be destroyed.

By the exercise of forethought, and diligence, the terror of typhoid fever has been removed. We hardly hear of a case of that dreadful disease. The filth and germs that made typhoid have been and are being destroyed.

Just as many other deadly diseases have been eliminated, so can our Southern malaria. The Doctors can tell how it can and should be done, hear them.

INTELLECTUAL CURIOSITY A GOOD THING, AND IT SHOULD BE SATISFIED.

President Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, once declared that the "entire lack of intellectual curiosity" among the youth with whom he mingled as one of the "most disturbing facts of his experience". Something is radically wrong with any who have no desire, to know things. Something is radically wrong with a nation or a state that does not provide ample means for satisfying the "intellectual curiosity" of the rising generation. It is in a noble effort to provide the means of mental satisfaction, that the present campaign is being waged in Alabama to add another million to the endowment of the University at Tuscaloosa. A nother institution suitable for whetting the mental appetite, so to speak, the library, public and private. There are public libraries in every town and city in Alabama, but it is doubtful if there is a first class public library, outside of those established by Andrew Carnegie in the entire state of Alabama. Too many public places are not provided where people can satisfy their intellectual longings for knowledge. An interesting article has appeared in a recent issue of a New York magazine, by John C. Dana, Librarian at Newark, N. J. for over thirty years. Mr. Dana is reputed to be one of the best authorities anywhere on WHAT to read.

And he says the book to read is the one you WANT to read. The advice of Dr. Samuel Johnson, the famous English scholar, is similar to that of Mr. Dana. He once said: "Whilst you stand deploring . . . another boy has read two books". Read anything. Dr. Johnson continues "for five years a day and you will soon be learned". These two men take the position that whatever your mind craves, read it. Dana says that any book that interests you will do you good and should have a place in your library. Mr. Dana makes a practical suggestion that is worth passing on. He says that all the books one needs as a reference library can be bought for forty dollars and he gives the following list and prices:

World Almanac	$0.50
A good home dictionary	2.50
A compact encyclopaedia	18.00
An atlas	3.00
Scientific American Reference Book	3.00
New International Year Book	6.50
Dictionary of Quotations	4.50
Total	$38.00

It will be seen that this library can be bought for the price of a suit of clothes. Enough food for thought to keep the mind going for a life time for the price of two months house rent! Mr. Dana suggests, that with such a library as a foundation that youths of both sexes purchase one book a week. At this rate in ten years a collection of a little over fifty books would be made. And if the purchaser should read each book as he or she buys it, in ten years time the result would be well informed persons, if not learned persons. College Libraries, Carnegie Libraries and all kinds of public and private libraries have their value; but the most valuable library is the self selected library, for such a one is the READ library.

BISHOP CANNON, WELL KNOWN HERE, SPEAKS OUT IN MEETING.

On his recent arrival in New York, Bishop James Cannon, made a notable address in which he charged that the Turks were making a systematic effort to destroy Christianity. He charged that America had been derelict in her duty, in offering nothing but words for the defense of the Armenians. The Bishop was speaking to the Council of the Federated churches and to a committee of the Near East Relief Movement. The meeting was attended by representatives of the American Relief Organization, mission workers, prominent churchmen and editors.

"The United States as a Christian Nation has failed to meet its responsibilities," Bishop Cannon is quoted as saying. And it was added that Dr. Henry A. Atkinson, general secretary of the Church peace union and Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey, agreed that Bishop Cannon was right in his contention. At present the bishop has charge of the work of his church in Mexico and Africa, but only a few years ago he was the presiding Bishop of the North Alabama Methodist church. He spoke in the Central Methodist church of Albany a few years ago in support of the Centenary movement, and proved to be able and convincing. It is quite possible, that outside of official circles at Washington, Bishop Cannon has quite as many if not more supporters in his position as regards our duty in the Near East, than has Charles E. Hughes and his associates, in their policy of "hands off," where the Turk and Armenian are concerned. Should the differences in the Near East be settled in a short time, what Bishop Cannon, Charles E. Hughes and all the balance have said will soon be forgotten, but if a real war comes upon the world from eastern Europe, the majority of Americans will be found saying, that if we had intervened as such men as Bishop Cannon counseled, we could have prevented increased blood shed, "and covered a multitude of sins."

OPPORTUNITIES NOT LACKING BUT WE MUST GRASP THEM

People in this country, so accustomed to the remarkable progress made by it in material wealth and so used to seeing men grow wealthy in comparatively a few years, do not realize just what a wonderful country it is for grasping and making the most of opportunities. That all of us do not grasp opportunities that appear to be awaiting every man, is not a reproach to the country. It is because we who do not grasp the opportunities are blind to them. Now and then some man like Henry Ford or John D. Rockefeller, comes along and gets rich doing what other men did not think of doing.

In the Mobile Register of Monday was a most striking illustration of the opportunities America has for men who look around and take hold of them. The Register article said:

"Sixty-seven years ago last Tuesday, at about 1 o'clock in the afternoon and in the town of Cleveland, John D. Rockefeller, Sr., went to work for $4 a week. He climbed on a high stool as many a clerk has before and since and made entries in a ruled book. Later he looked around, and among the opportunities of a country he found his own."

When the gold rush began to rain, he was under the shower with an oil can instead of a two-tined fork. From $4 for six day's work to what the name of Rockefeller has come to mean in finance, industry, relief and research the wide world round measures a little of the span of opportunities in America. Said an Irishman, born in the level lands back of Dublin, who once was young but now is come to middle age:

"I came to America seventeen years old, with eighty-five cents in my Dublin breeches. I went to an uncle in Baltimore who was without chick or child and he gave me $5 a week and wanted to make me his heir. He died worth $7,000,000 years after. Had I stayed—but I wanted to see the country. I did. I saw Oklahoma when it was raw, new and young, but my feet itched. I soldiered for Uncle Sam and grew sun-dried at desert pests. There was opportunity everywhere, but I wandered and weaved about, dodging the shower of gold that always is falling everywhere in America. I am an expert dodger, a vagabond and a born wastrel, but I have not been able to dodge it all. Almost in spite of myself, I'll die in a clean bed of my own and under a roof of my own. It's the only land in the world for an upstanding man with two feet under him, two hands at the ends of his arms and two eyes in his head. What a country, and there's never been anything like it."

All around us, in every part of this country lie opportunities that would make any number of men wealthy if they could see them and grasp them. Rockefeller did not get rich through luck.—There was no element of chance in his efforts. Henry Ford was not lucky. Each merely was alive to the opportunities that was near him and by grasping the opportunity and making the most of it, became among the richest men in the world. The average American has the same chance to amass wealth that Rockefeller and Ford had, but we, who are the average Americans, do not take advantage of our opportunities.—Anniston Star.

DEBT CANCELLATION.

There has been a lot of political bunk and demagoguery indulged in by the politicians and many newspapers on the subject of forcing a collection of the international debts due the United States. Advocates of the prompt collection of these debts argue that we hold the obligations of certain foreign powers, the debt is due and therefore it should and must be paid. It is popular with the majority of the people to thus argue. Perhaps a large majority of the people of America give no thought whatever to the problems of international finance; they know nothing about trade balances and they have but a hazy idea of the parity of international exchange. It is exceedingly doubtful if a majority could understand these questions if they attempted their mastery. But there are newspapers and politicians who are not ignorant, but who prefer to take the popular view rather than attempt to educate the intelligent among the masses of the American voters.

Unquestionably the ablest deliverance so far made in America on the question of international indebtedness and finance was the address of the Right Honorable Reginald McKenna, of Great Britain, before the American convention. He covered the entire length and breadth and depth of the whole question. He was fair and impartial. He discussed these problems as an economist, a world statesman and not as a politician. He gave abundant reasons for his final summary of the situation. There is no escape from the conclusions reached by this able and distinguished British economist and statesman. Every thinking man must agree with his summary although many of them will doubtless lack the courage to give expression to such agreement.

On the question of debt payment his conclusions are these:

First, that England can pay interest and sinking fund, because she still possesses foreign securities with which to pay. Since England can pay, she will pay.

Second, that the other debtor countries, including France and Italy, do not have foreign securities with which to pay their debts. They could pay only by exporting more goods than they import; and since the world is not prepared to take a great surplus of French and Italian exports, hope of payment from these countries must be definitely postponed, and nothing expected ultimately except what can be paid by the export of goods.

These views are identical with those long maintained by The Herald. It has repeatedly stated that England was the only country that was able to pay its debt to America. Neither France or Italy or Belgium nor the new republics can pay. If those countries should seek a cancellation of their indebtedness through the sale to our country of goods the result would be to thoroughly demoralize our markets and we should lose more than we could possibly gain. The debt issue should not be a political question. It is purely an economic problem, but our politicians, who never stand for anything but an office, whose convictions are always born of a thirst for public preferment, will invade any realm, social, economic, religious, for an issue if it promises a few votes.—Columbia Herald.

ATTEMPT WILL BE MADE TO OUST NEWBERRY.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette, who has a hold on Wisconsin that is the envy of his less fortunate colleagues, is pledged to renew the fight against Newberry in the Senate. "Newberryism" was an issue in his recent campaign, when he was renominated by a tremendous majority.

LaFollette is no friend to the "old guard," neither does he play the kind of politics that resulted in seating Newberry. His honesty and his independence were largely responsible for the big vote he polled in Wisconsin, and if he starts out to get the scalp of Senator Newberry the fight in the Senate will be well worth watching. A Washington dispatch says LaFollette will introduce a resolution calling for Newberry's expulsion. There will be a number of changes in the Senate by the time this resolution comes up for consideration, and Senator Newberry may not be saved next time by the "old guard."

Regardless of what may or may not be done in the Senate, "Newberryism" will not down. It is being utilized by Democratic spellbinders to good purpose in showing the voters a particularly glaring example of discreditable politics in the Republican party. The lot of Senator Newberry is not an enviable one. He is a heavy liability to his party and the stigma attached to his name must give him some unhappy moments on his own account.

Large sums of money will be spent in seeking office, in the future, just as in the past, but it will be a long time before such another shameless attempt is made to buy a seat in the United States Senate. The "pitiless publicity" by which the Newberry scandal was exposed will deter unscrupulous politicians from being as openly corrupt as the Newberry crowd was in Michigan.—Age-Herald.

There will be no danger from scarcity of food products if the report of government figures stand for anything. The harvest is reported as a bumper one. The corn forecast is 2,853,000,000. All wheat 810,123,000. These two items alone of food products according to the forecast aggregate over 3,000,000,000 bushels, enough to satisfy every inhabitant of this country and some to spare to those who are less fortunate. The forecast for sweet and white potatoes is, 538,505,000 bushels, with oats listed as 1,229,774,000 bushels.

To show the diversity of employment in this world, or rather the lack of employment, a party has set out to rediscover Ur, of the Chaldees, when there hasn't a thing happened since Abraham. Such people would make poor news gatherers.

There is one place people will never speak with pride as having visited—where the bodies of the rector and Mrs Mills were found.

God's country may be rough; but the people who inhabit it are not.

The heart description, "deceitful and desperately wicked," is hardly ever applied to the heart of the person or persons who use the description.

There is one trying thing over with for this year—a tied score in the 9th inning.

Great Scott, as a by-word is apt to become very popular once more, since the performance of a certain man by that name during the world's series.

21,000,000 gallons of wine are stored in California and it is improving every day. There is something to live for after all.

When the Red Cross signs were in our windows, we were reminded that "the sign of the cross" meant no more wars. It would have taken a League of Nations or something of the kind to have enforced that meaning.

What would be worse than a Turkishized world? Echo answers—"Nothing."

RICHARD HARDING DAVIS BIG STORY AT DELIGHT

Richard Harding Davis is well known to every person who reads much. He was a journalist, a war correspondent, a soldier, and between times an author of books. It is difficult to say what his greatest achievement was, since all his efforts found emphatic recognition by the public.

But the people of Albany-Decatur are concerned at present with his ability as an author.

The Delight today presents the new version of a romance which Davis wrote. William Fox has turned out a screen production of "The Men of Zanzibar," starring William Russell. It is full of action, thrill and romance.

Zanzibar on the East African coast may be correctly called the port of missing men. For here are gathered the fugitives from every land who have been careless in their code of honor though careful in covering their tracks.

THE STAR HAS "IN THE DAYS OF BUFFALO BILL."

"Each player fits his role like a glove!"

This was an exclamation made by a critic at the review of the first few episodes of the Universal Chapter play, "In the Days of Buffalo Bill," which comes to the Star Friday.

The exclamation is easy to account for. Probably never before in the history of motion pictures has a cast of players been so well qualified.

Art Acord, star of the serial, besides being a daring cowboy and known for his activities in rodeos throughout the West, was an entertainer with Buffalo Bill, touring with the hero horseman in many states. The title role, Buffalo, is played by Duke Lee, an experienced actor, who toured for seven years with Buffalo Bill during which time he became imbued with much of the great man's spirit and energy.

VERA STEADMAN IS THE STAR AT PRINCESS FOR SATURDAY

"Scrap Iron," the First National Attraction to be shown at the Princess Saturday shows Vera Steadman and Charles Ray.

Vera was borrowed from the Christie comedies to play the part of a selfish girl with an eye on the main chance. Not a bad girl but one who loves to make men chase after her.

Charles Ray contends that the girl who has the ability to make good in straight roles has the experience and ability to handle dramatic roles.

Morgan Girl Is Given Training At Blind School

The progress being made by Miss Sammie Cook, of near Albany, at the Tennessee Commission for the Blind's school, may lead to establishment of a similar school in Alabama. This news was brought here today by H. H. Grant, of the state department of rehabilitation. The department is undertaking the work of aiding those in civilian life who need special training because of their physical condition. Miss Cook was placed by the department in the Tennessee School and now at the end of four months has progressed so rapidly that she is able to earn a salary each month. If there are others who need the services of the department, Mr. Grant requested them to get in communication with Mrs. Vera Austill, who aided in the placing of Miss Cook in the Tennessee School.

Otto Werner, superintendent of the warehouse, was beaten over the head with one of the bandit's revolvers.

Colder Weather Is Helping Trade

Cooler weather is helping business in the Twin Cities, said a prominent merchant today. "We have been fairly busy for the past week and the purchases were not confined simply to seasonal needs. There is plenty of money, and a disposition to trade. Once colder weather sets in, there will no doubt be a great revival in all lines at this point."

In the various stores there is a tempting array of all kinds of merchandise and the show windows display lines of goods well up to former times.

Miss Belle Kearney Is Heard Here

Miss Belle Kearney, defeated candidate for the United States Senate in Mississippi, spoke to an appreciative audience at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium last night. The distinguished visitor was introduced in a few well chosen words by Dr. J. Fred Jones, pastor of the First Christian Church. She reviewed at length her campaign in Mississippi.

Gifted Hebrew Physician. At the close of the Twelfth and beginning of the Thirteenth centuries there flourished in Roume Emmanuel Zifroni, Jewish physician, poet, astronomer and mathematician. Says the Medical Record, quoting H. Pottelniche: "He is believed to have been on friendly terms with Dante and even to have suggested to him, in part at least, his great trilogy, by writing a poem of the same scope—the journey of a Jew through hell and heaven, accompanied by the prophet Daniel. The name of this prototype poem was 'Machaberoth'."

New York Letter by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Chinatown, it becometh fraught to her in one that one time place of mystery and of the very dismal scenes, before irregularity, has reformed to a do your eyes, she smiles herself into agree that sightseers really find 17, her lovely body throbbing the grievous. For several years, it has been increasingly difficult for the guides to get much thrill for tourists out of the trips there; but the quarter, itself, cooperated with them to the extent of letting itself appear much wicked than it was. If a hardworking Chinese smoking an after dinner pipe of tobacco in his own home could be made out to be a knife-man passing into beds of poesy by the opium route, it was quite all right with the harmless Chinese. It brought visitors to the quarter and the visitors spent money. So let it go! But the moral wave has risen higher. Now the denizens of Chinatown are not content with being respectable; they insist upon appearing so. And they have issued a protest against allowing the sight-seeing buses to invade their streets at all. It's going to take a great deal of enjoyment away from the tourists who love to revel vicariously in our city's wickedness.

If you stroll up Fifth Avenue these days, or view it from a bus top, you would wonder, as I do, if the folks in those great marble palaces are ever home. This is the time of year when most people are through with their summer's junketing, but still those doors and windows facing Central Park are boarded up everyone of them. You'd say that their inhabitants never are at home, for you'll find it true, whatever the season, that a goodly share of the marble fronts are shut as tight as possible. Where are the Fifth Avenue people? The whirling life depicted in Edith Wharton's "Glimpses of the Moon" must be the answer to the question. Her exposition of the habits of the "idle rich" is pretty frank, but it does explain how the Fifth Avenue set, in the frantic searchings for pleasure are shown as finding it pretty much everywhere except at their Social Register addresses. It comes with rather a shock, though to learn in "Glimpses" just what are the things the smart set gads about the world doing.

Those among us who always believe we could write a great book or achieve a masterpiece in some other art if only "our conditions and surroundings were right and we had the time" would do well to take note of some of New York City's artists and their lives. A new genius is believed to have been discovered in the painter of "Venetian Scene," an oil on exhibition at the Italian-American Art Association. He is F. Zirilli—and he is a day laborer in a New York shipyard; while Albert Edl, winner of the second award in the department of sculpture at the Beaux Art Institute of Design, is still working genially and industriously in the kitchen of a "business men's lunch" down on Chalmers Street. He isn't even the chef; he's just a scullion.

The roundygo of theatricals for me in a season is immense, and I try to keep to the cold critical viewpoint. I simply cannot resist certain personalities of the theatre; however, try as I will. Ethel Barrymore is one of them—yea, the leading. In her performance of "Rose Bernd" by Hauptmann, translated by the erudite Ludwig Lewisohn, she surpasses my prejudiced expectations. I am no different from the school girl, who sits down and writes her about it. I want to—I even think I will. How it is possible for this superb example of womanhood to divest herself of the raiment and beauty which is hers by right, and appear the drab uncouth worker of the field, and at the same time retain the assential exquisiteness of herself and sex is phenomenal. Playing a part of admittedly 25 to 30 years, with the suggestion of life and lives. Maybe the long skirts have something to do with it. Maybe it's the big, plumed hat. But something has happened to bring the old home humor back to popularity. Drives through Central Park in those old-time vehicles are more and more frequent this Fall, and the interesting thing is that it is the young people who make up most of the patrons. The hansom cat, for the benefit of those who have forgotten them in these motor days, is the fall carriage running on two wheels with the cabby sitting on top and causing two front doors to swing open at the pressing of a button.

The Economy BAKING POWDER

—sales over 150% greater than that of any other brand.

There isn't a baking powder of greater merit—there isn't a leavener obtainable that will produce more satisfactory or positive results. That's why the largest baking powder factories in the world are always busy turning out enough Calumet to supply the great demand.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce instead of 16 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

Road Must Pay For Dog's Death On Rail

MONTGOMERY, Oct. 13.—John B. Widworth of Hale County had a dog. The dog walked on a railroad track of the A. G. S. His life ended quickly. Mr. Widworth valued the dog at $90 and a jury valued it at $50. The railroad appealed. The supreme court said Tuesday the road must pay.

The road contended that the dog was not properly because the dog tax had not been paid. The courts held this was another matter and did not bar recovery from the road for the value of the dog.

The funeral services probably will be the largest attended in the history of the Twin Cities. Few could claim the number of friends Dr. Murry had. Serving his fellowman here for more than a quarter of a century, Dr. Murry had endeared himself to the heart of every man, woman and child in Albany and Decatur. Tomorrow his friends will gather to pay their last respect to him whom they loved. The business houses of Albany and Decatur, at the request of Mayors Brittain and Nelson, will be closed during the funeral.

Ex-Wife Insists "Irresistible Lover" Was Murdered

Mrs. Stella N. Dernier, ex-wife of Guy N. Dernier.

Mrs. Stella N. Dernier, ex-wife of Guy N. Dernier, formerly efficiency man for Montgomery, Ward & Co., of Chicago, whose body was found in a creek near Phoenix, Arizona, insists he was murdered. A diary found on his person showed he had made violent love to twenty-three married women, and the husband of one of the women is suspected. Dernier, the "irresistible lover," had been co-respondent in half a dozen divorces.

COTTON IS DAMAGED IN WAREHOUSE HERE

At 1:15 o'clock this morning the Albany fire department responded to the alarm of fire at the warehouse of Messrs. Hughes and Tidwell on West Moulton Street where there was considerable cotton stored. The cotton of Messrs. Hughes and Tidwell was ginned Thursday and placed in the warehouse. In the warehouse was also some cotton the property of the Farm Bureau.

According to Fred Tidwell, of the firm, it is his opinion that his cotton was on fire when brought from the gin, and broke out during the night. The cotton belonging to the Farm Bureau members was not damaged. In all, six bales were destroyed, and there was considerable damage to the building, all of which was covered by insurance. The fire company stood by all night, returning to their station at 10 o'clock this morning.

"Fire in cotton is a treacherous fire," said Chief Sorber, "and very hard to extinguish."

The fire broke out several times during the night after it apparently had been put out.

ALLOTMENT MADE OF SCHOOL FUNDS

The state apportionment of public funds for school purposes has been announced by the state department of education, and 53 thousand dollars is the sum allotted to Morgan County. This will be supplemented 53,000,000 from the state and county collections of the county of Morgan, and also by $40,000 which will be derived from the special three mill tax. Of this $40,000 special tax, the city of Albany pays $15,000 and Decatur $9,000.

Last year the county allotment from general taxes which went to the school fund was $72,000. It is therefore about $9,000 short this year which is occasioned by the lowering of taxable values in the county. Tax collections are running far ahead of last year at this season, according to the tax collector. In comparison with a similar period last year there has been collected up to date $2,700 as against $1,400 last year. Up to date 25 poll tax receipts have been issued.

WIDE TERRITORY TO BE SERVED BY THE LABORATORY

Between three and four hundred physicians of North Alabama will be served in the care of their patients, when the laboratory to be established here by the state health department is in full operation.

The laboratory which will be housed with the Morgan County health unit is expected to prove a kind of Mecca for thousands of afflicted persons of the Tennessee Valley as the years roll by.

According to Dr. B. F. Austin, county health officer, by a formal resolution, the Morgan County Medical Society has agreed to see to it that the rooms required by the state health department shall be furnished free of charge to the state. It is expected that the rooms for the laboratory will be provided at once, and that by January 1 the laboratory will be in full operation.

Supported by Rockefeller.

Outside of furnishing the floor space for the laboratory it will operate without cost to the state, or county, as the John D. Rockefeller Foundation will furnish the money to pay the employees and to furnish the equipment.

The funds now used for the health unit work in the county will continue to be available just as before the location of the laboratory.

Diagnostic work will be one of the chief tasks undertaken at the new laboratory and special attention will be given to finding and destroying the germs that tend to bring on contagious diseases.

FRENCH PRESIDENT LEADS BUSY LIFE

By Herbert M. Davidson.

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Oct. 12.—It's a hard life being President of the French Republic. Here's the daily programme of Monsieur Millerand during his Summer sojourn at Rambouillet, where he dwelt in the historic chateau there. Would you change your job for his?

Seven o'clock—wakes up. Breakfasts English style—tea, milk, toast, butter, fruit or jam. Not fruit and jam—fruit or jam. Reads Paris newspapers and some provincial papers. There are twenty-six morning papers in Paris alone. Takes notes.

Nine o'clock—Takes walk in the woods, bare-headed, often alone.

Eleven-thirty—Reads mail, dictates mail and talks long distance to Paris. Even the President can't talk ten minutes on a French telephone without being cut off at least once for each minute.

One o'clock—Luncheon in the magnificent dining hall of the chateau. Discusses household details. Eats simply but substantially.

Three o'clock—Receives callers or plays dominoes with his children.

Four o'clock—Tea is served. Five o'clock—Takes another walk in the forest.

Six-thirty—Gets second mail from Paris. Works with his secretaries.

Eight o'clock—Dinner is served. The President eats heartily.

Nine o'clock—Plays bridge or poker with family or friends. The President is said to be a good loser.

Being President of France in the Winter time involves further duties, chiefly social, according to the Carnet de la Semaine, from whose columns the details of the foregoing programme were gathered.

The capture of six gallons of moonshine was effected at a late hour Thursday afternoon by deputies from the sheriff's office at a point south of here on the Bee Line highway. The officers received a tip of a buggy load of moonshine headed that way, so accordingly lay in wait. Their efforts were rewarded by intercepting the buggy which was occupied by two men and contained two gallon jugs and 2 one gallon jugs of liquor. The men made their bonds and were released.

Rainbow in Summer and Winter.

Why is the rainbow so frequently seen during the summer and so seldom during winter? Its formation, we are told by Prof. W. A. Humphreys, the eminent meteorological physicist, requires the coexistence of rain and sunshine, a condition that often occurs during local convective showers but rarely during a general cyclonic storm, and as the former are characteristic of summer and the latter of winter, it follows that the occurrence of the rainbow correspondingly varies with the seasons.

HIS RHEUMATISM HAS ENTIRELY DISAPPEARED

Nearly everybody in Gastonia and vicinity either knows or has heard of J. F. Clemmer, the building contractor, of 311 East Third St. Not only does Mr. Clemmer rank A-1 as a builder, but he is also highly respected and esteemed as a man and citizen. Mr. Clemmer had suffered much annoyance from rheumatism for a year or more, and not being able to find relief from other sources he finally resorted to Tanlac. But let him tell his own story. Here is his statement:

"I was suffering from rheumatism so badly in my arm and shoulder that I could hardly move. I was in such pain that it was almost impossible for me to get anything done. It had rendered me almost helpless and, as nothing did me any good, I became very much depressed."

"My wife kept insisting that I give Tanlac a trial and I have been thankful a thousand times that finally I took her advice. After I finished my third bottle the rheumatism was gone and while that has been a year ago now I've never had the least trouble since. I don't know what Tanlac will do for others, but it certainly did the work for me."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—adv.

WAS A GOOD JUDGE OF LIQUOR

"Since a young man I had a liking for liquor, and was considered a pretty good judge of it at one time, but constant drinking gave me stomach trouble which became chronic. My stomach would have been a valuable addition to a gas factory. Doctors did not seem to relieve me. One day my druggist got me to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and I am now as good as new." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—All druggists. adv.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Laughing at Blondie

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

WHAT do you think," said the manicure girl, splashing away in the bowl at a great rate. "Blondie came in today and told me about the birthday present her brand-new husband has just given her. You'll never guess what it is if you try for a thousand years."

"Speak it! Speak it!" said the Marcel wave girl, crocheting down to get a good look at her sleek hair in the mirror.

It was almost closing time—only one or two customers were left in the shop and the girls were having their daily gossip. "An electric cleaner," said the manicure girl. "One of those vacuum things—you know, that they puff the dust off the rugs with."

"No!" screamed the Marcel wave girl. "He didn't! Well, of all the nuts!"

"And she told it, mind you, and was proud of it—the poor fish!"

Gifts and Gifts

And the two girls laughed until they almost choked, all because Blondie, whoever she was, was happily married and glad to get a nice handy vacuum cleaner for a birthday present.

"I'd show any man the door that dared to bring me a present like that!" said the manicure girl.

"Door!" gasped the Marcel wave girl—"I'd push him out of the window no matter if we were two stories up and then some."

And the buxom person with the highly florid complexion and nails that sparkled like diamonds almost fell out of the beauty chair laughing in sympathy.

I wonder why. I didn't see a thing to laugh at—not a thing.

Only I wanted to laugh with Blondie and congratulate her on her good sense and her good luck.

I wonder what the Marcel wave girl would want her perfectly good husband to give her as a birthday present, if she could have just exactly what she wanted and no questions asked?

"Knowing"?—Perhaps

A ring, I suppose, or a bracelet, and as for the manicure girl—she'd take the first payment on a roadster and put it in the right place, without a blink.

Poor things—and they both think themselves so clever and so worldly wise.

Knowing and up-to-date they are. Oh, you can tell that by one glance at either of them! They can pick a "bucco" or a "come-on" without half trying, and neither of them would be seen at a dance or a roadhouse with any man who doesn't own his own car and love to talk about "shows" and "sweet running engines."

Well, they'll have their day, I suppose—they're having it now for that matter. But little Blondie—

She's having hers, too—she and her home and her husband—yes, and the vacuum cleaner, and ten years from now I wonder who will be the happiest and the luckiest of the three girls.

I'll wager my money on Blondie. What do you think?
